A Parents Guide to 21st Century Learning

TEN TIPS TO BRING 21ST-CENTURY SKILLS HOME

(taken from Edutopia.org)

- 1 INVESTIGATE INTERNSHIPS AND MENTORSHIPS that will give your child firsthand experience with the world beyond the classroom. Watch this Edutopia video: edutopia.org/stw-career-technical-education-community-partnerships.
- 2 LOOK FOR SUMMER CAMPS AND OTHER LEARNING EXPERIENCES that build 21st-century skills. For example, Girl Scouts of the USA offers girls a chance to earn innovation-minded badges in science, technology, engineering, and math. Learn more at girlscouts.org/program/basics/science/.
- 3 LOOK FOR EXPERIENCES TO EXPAND YOUR CHILD'S GLOBAL UNDERSTANDING of how people live in economically challenged countries. Watch this Edutopia video for one example: edutopia.org/heifer-international-global-village-video.
- 4 EXTEND THE SCHOOL DAY with experiences that help kids pursue interests and build new skills. Here's a look at some engaging after-school programs: edutopia.org/new-day-for-learning.
- 5 ENCOURAGE YOUR TEENS TO SHARE THEIR KNOWLEDGE as volunteers by mentoring younger students or teaching adults about technology. Find ideas at compassionatekids.com.
- 6 BUILD ON YOUR KIDS' INTEREST IN GAMING by getting them connected with Massively Minecraft, a digital-media learning community created by parents and teachers for students ages 4-16. Learn more at massivelyminecraft.org.
- 7 PRESERVE THE SWEET MEMORIES OF FAMILY VACATIONS by making digital scrapbooks with your kids. Read this blog post to learn more about digital storytelling: edutopia.org/blog/
- 8 UNLOCK YOUR CHILD'S CREATIVE POTENTIAL through community arts programs. Find out why the arts are critical: edutopia.org/arts-education-art-music-report.
- 9 GET INVOLVED IN THE DO-IT-YOURSELF MAKER MOVEMENT with your family and tap the benefits of tinkering. Learn more in this blog post: edutopia.org/blog/education-maker-faire-young-makers-program.
- 10 HELP YOUR CHILDREN MASTER COMMUNICATION AND CONFLICT-RESOLUTION SKILLS by practicing social and emotional learning at home. Borrow ideas from the Edutopia article, "Raise Your Student' Emotional-Intelligence Quotient," (edutopia.org/10-tips-creating-caring-school) and visit this social and emotional learning resource page: edutopia.org/social-emotional-learning.
